the

Southeast
Asian City

as

Text

This page is intentionally left blank

Southeast Asian City as Text

- > Urban Landscapes,
- > Cultural Documents, and
- > Interpretative Experiences

ROBBIE B.H.GOH

BRENDA S.A.YEOH

National University of Singapore

World Scientific

New Jersey • London • Singapore • Hong Kong

Published by

World Scientific Publishing Co. Pte. Ltd.

5 Toh Tuck Link, Singapore 596224

USA office: Suite 202, 1060 Main Street, River Edge, NJ 07661

UK office: 57 Shelton Street, Covent Garden, London WC2H 9HE

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

First published 2003

Reprinted 2003

THEORIZING THE SOUTHEAST ASIAN CITY AS TEXT
Urban Landscapes, Cultural Documents, and Interpretative Experiences

Copyright © 2003 by World Scientific Publishing Co. Pte. Ltd.

All rights reserved. This book, or parts thereof, may not be reproduced in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording or any information storage and retrieval system now known or to be invented, without written permission from the Publisher.

For photocopying of material in this volume, please pay a copying fee through the Copyright Clearance Center, Inc., 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923, USA. In this case permission to photocopy is not required from the publisher.

ISBN 981-238-283-6

Printed by FuIsland Offset Printing (S) Pte Ltd, Singapore

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
List of Contributors	ix
Urbanism and Post-Colonial Nationalities: Theorizing the Southeast Asian City	1
Robbie B.H. Goh and Brenda S.A. Yeoh
Chapter 1
Reading the Southeast Asian City in the Context of Rapid Economic Growth	13
Tay Kheng Soon with Robbie B.H. Goh
Chapter 2
"The Rise of the Merlion": Monument and Myth in the Making of the Singapore Story	29
Brenda S.A. Yeoh and T.C. Chang

Chapter 3

- Things to a Void: Utopian Discourse, Communal-ity and Constructed Interstices in Singapore
Public Housing 51
Robbie B.H. Goh

Chapter 4

- Selective Disclosure: Romancing the Singapore River 77
Shirlena Huang and T.C. Chang

Chapter 5

- Malaysia's High-Tech Cities and the Construction of Intelligent Citizenship 109
Tim Bunnell

Chapter 6

- Museum/City/Nation: Negotiating Identities in Urban Museums in Indonesia and Singapore 135
Kathleen M. Adams

Chapter 7

- The Urban and the Urbane: Modernization,
Modernism and the Rebirth of Singaporean Cinema 159
Anthony R. Guneratne

Chapter 8

- Benjamin in Bombay? An Asian Extrapolation 191
Rajeev Patke

Acknowledgements

This volume represents a selection of papers first presented at an International Conference on the City as Text: Urban Topographies and Critical Interventions, in September 1999, jointly organized by the Department of English Literature and Language and the Centre for Advanced Studies, National University of Singapore. We would like to thank the many individuals who have contributed to the success of the Conference: Tong Chee Kiong, then-Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, and Anne Pakir, then-head of the Department of English Language and Literature, ensured that institutional support for the conference was forthcoming. The conference organizing team (John Phillips, Jeffrey Partridge, Robin Loon, Barnard Turner and Kathleen Ke) contributed greatly to the intellectual and logistical success of the conference. We are also grateful to the Department of English Literature and Language and the Centre for Advanced Studies for funding support.

In the process of pulling together and editing the papers for this volume, we have further lengthened the trail of debt. We are particularly grateful to Professor Chua Beng Huat and two referees for their careful comments as well as the support staff at the Centre for Advanced Studies — Valerie, Yati, George and Selvi — as well as other assistants — Pow, Lynsey and Venessa — who lent invaluable help in different ways. Finally, as research and writing are almost always context-dependent, we would like to thank our colleagues in our respective Departments as well as the Deanery for the encouragement and support to explore the borderlands between disciplines. In locating “texts” in the “city”, and in turn interpreting the city as “text,” this book testifies to the possibilities of what might be achieved in continuing the dialogue across conventional academic boundaries.

Robbie B.H. Goh and Brenda S.A. Yeoh
July 2001

List of Contributors

Robbie B. H. Goh (Ellgohbbh@nus.edu.sg) teaches in the Department of English Language and Literature of the National University of Singapore. He has also been Visiting Fellow at the University of Washington, the University of Sydney, and the University of Birmingham. Recent publications include articles in Urban Studies, Atlantic Literary Review and Social Semiotics, and the book Postcolonial Cultures and Literatures (co-edited with Andrew Benjamin and Tony Davies).

Brenda S.A. Yeoh is Associate Professor, Department of Geography, National University of Singapore. She completed her B.A. (Hons) at Cambridge University and obtained her D.Phil from Oxford University. She specialises in social and historical geography. Her research foci include the politics of space in colonial and post-colonial cities; and gender, migration and transnational communities. She has published over 45 scholarly journal papers and is also author/editor of Portraits of Places: History, Community and Identity in Singapore (Times Editions 1995, with Lily Kong); Contesting Space: Power Relations and the Urban Built Environment in Colonial Singapore (Oxford University Press, 1996); Singapore: A Developmental City State (John Wiley 1997, with Martin Perry and Lily Kong), Community and Change: The Tanjong Pagar Community Club Story (Armour 1997) and Gender and Migration (Edward Elgar 2000, with Katie Willis).

Tay Kheng Soon is Principal Partner of Akitek Tenggara. He has also been the chairman of Singapore Planning and Urban Research Group (SPUR), an independent group examining urban environment and was active in proposing innovative solutions. He was President of the Singapore Institute of Architects from 1991–1993. He did pioneering work in commercial centres and shopping centres in the 70's. Currently he is involved in institutional projects which include a 800-bed Women's and Children's Hospital, a private hospital in Batu Pahat, several schools, institutions of higher learning as well as recreational projects. Tay is also currently involved in technology identification, development and the implementation of such technologies in the context of urban and rural economies. He envisages that these technologies are essential to sustainable urbanisation and proper agro-ecology management. He is involved in an experimental aqua-culture farm in Johore and runs Kem-Eco, an educational camp also in Johore.

T.C. Chang is Assistant Professor in the Department of Geography, National University of Singapore. His research interests include tourism in Southeast Asia, urban conservation and redevelopment, and arts and culture. He obtained his Ph.D. from McGill University in 1996.

Shirlena Huang is Associate Professor in the Department of Geography, National University of Singapore. She has a PhD from the University of Toronto, Canada. Her research focuses on gender and labour migration issues (particularly in the Asian context) as well as urban conservation and redevelopment.

Tim Bunnell is Assistant Professor in the Department of Geography at the National University of Singapore. He completed his PhD at the University of Nottingham in the UK before moving to Singapore in 1999, initially as a Postdoctoral Fellow. His main research interest is urban landscape change in contemporary Malaysia.

Kathleen Adams is Associate Professor of Anthropology at Loyola University Chicago and Adjunct Curator at Chicago's Field Museum. She is coauthor of Home and Hegemony: Domestic Service and Identity Politics in South and Southeast Asia and has published in American Ethnologist, Museum Anthropology, Ethnology, Southeast Asian Journal of Social Science and other journals.

Anthony Guneratne is presently a visiting scholar at Harvard University and teaches Communication and Film Studies at Florida Atlantic University. He is completing books on cinema for Routledge and Wayne State University Press, as well as researching 19th and 20th century exoticism in film, photography, painting, anthropology and travel literature.

Rajeev S. Patke teaches in the Department of English Language and Literature at the National University of Singapore. He has produced two CDs of local poetry, authored The Long Poems of Wallace Stevens: An Interpretative Study (Cambridge 1985), and co-edited Institutions in Cultures: Theory and Practice (Rodopi, 1996). He is currently working on Asian extrapolations from the work of Walter Benjamin and Theodor Adorno.