The author's gratitude also goes to his co-authors for their contributions to the relevant chapters and their kind permissions for the inclusion of the articles in this individual collection. These co-authors are: Yongnian Zheng, for Chapter 8; Helen Lansdowne, for Chapters 2, 13, and 20. Their friendships are heartily acknowledged and remembered.

In the prolonged process of writing the articles included in this collection, the author is indebted to numerous colleagues and friends, who are warmly thanked for their intellectual, administrative, and moral support in various ways. They include: Alison Baily, Jean-Philippe Beja, Colin Bennett, Greg Blue, Michel Bonnin, Jonathan Chan (Taipei), Ming Chan (The Hoover Institute), Stella Chan (UVic), Tim Cheek, Zhongping Chen, Xiaonong Cheng, Dong-ching Day, Radhika Desai, Lowell Dittmer, Feng Yuan (Beijing), Joseph Fewsmith, David Finkelstein, Sujian Guo, Carol Lee Hamrin, Nancy Hearst, Eric Huang, Jean Hung (Hong Kong), Wenran Jiang, Jin Guantao, Michael Yingmao Kau, Liana Kennedy, Richard King, Joseph Kess, Emma Lansdowne, the late Fenwick Lansdowne, Helen Lansdowne, Dianna Lary, Chenyang Li, Shaomin Li, Lin Wen-cheng, Liu Qingfeng, Sonny Lo, Lynne Marks, Andrew J. Nathan, Bill Neilson, Minxin Pei, Pitman Potter, Jing Qian (UVic Law), Stephanie Rogers, Eric Sager, Tom Saunders, Yongyi Song, Peter Sowden, Doug Thompson, Heidi Tyedmers, Amy Verdun, Lynn T. White III, Feng Xu, Wei Zhang (formerly Cambridge University), Zhang Weiguo, Suisheng Zhao, Yongnian Zheng, and Kate Xiao Zhou.

Many institutions also provided a variety of help during the years of my research and writing that has resulted in these articles. I would like to first thank the University of Victoria (UVic), of which I am an employee, and its Department of Political Science, Department of History, and Centre for Asia-Pacific Initiatives (CAPI) — three departments with which I have affiliations and have been working in collegial and supportive circumstances. Meanwhile I would like to thank the UVic Library, the Fairbank Center Library at Harvard University, the Universities Service Centre for China Studies in Hong Kong, and the East Asian Institute Library of the National University of Singapore, which facilitated my research relevant to these publications. The Institute of Asian Research at the University of British Columbia and its Centre for Chinese Research, and the East Asian Institute at the National University of Singapore are also thanked.

I should especially acknowledge and thank Cindy Tse and Lea Liao's indispensable assistance over numerous hours in preparing the final manuscript. The in-house editors of World Scientific, Xin Ying Lee and Li Hongyan are thanked for their enthusiasm for the collection and their professionalism in managing its editing and publication.

This book is dedicated to Mr. Wang Zhaojun, the author's high-school and lifetime teacher, a mentor, an elder brother, and a best friend, who has since the 1980s been a well-known and award-winning writer in China. The dedication is a humble way to remember his enlightening education of the author as a village boy in the hard times of the early 1970s, and to celebrate the life journeys that we have travelled since then, shoulder-by-shoulder.

Last but not least, I would like to express my utmost gratitude to my wife, Xiaoying Liao, and sons, Alexander and Felix, for their love, understanding, and limitless support.

All remaining mistakes and errors are mine.
